ELEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

STATE HISTORIAN AND DIRECTOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

TO THE STATE HISTORICAL COMMISSION,

HON. L. G. HARDMAN,

Ex-Officio Chairman:

The year brought to a close by this meeting has been a momentous one for the department of archives and history. The gift of the Rhodes residence, tendered by the heirs of the late Mr. A. G. Rhodes in May of 1929, was accepted by the general assembly in a resolution introduced by Senator J. Render Terrell, and signed by the governor Aug. 21, 1929. The sum of $5000 was appropriated for repairing and shelving the building. Estimates and plans for the shelving were secured and five bids for the repair work were obtained in September last. At the direction of the governor the contract for the alterations was awarded to Padgett & Sutton, who completed their work in November. Steel shelves for the MS. records were installed by the Library Bureau in December. Valuable gifts in the form of furniture, museum cases, portieres, curtains, etc., were included with the house. No funds for the maintenance of the building being available the collection of MS. records has been continued at the capitol with the exception of some 10,000 tax digests, 1870-1925, recently taken over from the comptroller-general and for which space was lacking in our capitol quarters. Our stock of departmental publications, including the Colonial, Revolutionary and Confederate Records, issued by the compilers of records—Candler, Northen and Knight—has been stored on the ground floor of the new home, and all museum materials, oil paintings, etc., have been moved and arranged there for display on the upper floors. Since January 1st, the house has been open daily to the public from 8 to 5:30, except Sundays when the hours are 10 to 12, this service having been made possible by the payment of heat, light, water and janitor-service from private funds of the state historian.

The dedication of the building took place on May 10th and 11th with two afternoon receptions to the general public. At the first of these the members of your honorable board and your wives, Mr. and Mrs. Rhodes and Dr. and Mrs. Bricker, the donors of the property, Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Knight and Judge and Mrs. J. Render Terrell were invited to receive. At the second reception the presidents of the Atlanta and the Georgia historical societies and the state heads of the various patriotic organizations were asked to form the receiving line. (The cost of these receptions was also supplied from the private funds of the state historian.)

Plans for the future include the continued building of the MS. collection with its three divisions of state, county and private papers; the development of the pictorial collection, already well under way and divided into portrait miniatures of outstanding Georgians and photographs of citizens generally and places of historic interest; and the gathering of relics depicting the life of our people from the earliest times. All collections of whatever nature are kept intact and cataloged accordingly. The growth of memorial collections—manuscript, pictorial, and museum—is most gratifying, both from the standpoint of number and of value. By request three of the second-floor rooms have been set aside and now contain the records, relics, portraits, etc., of the Atlanta Historical Society, the Atlanta Old Guard organization, and the Spanish-American veterans. The collections of other organizations will be cared for in the future.

Of necessity the routine work of the department, particularly the cataloging, suffered during the year. The tremendous increase in the mail, the added work in connection with the new home and the great number of accessions made impossible the type of work the state historian and her two assistants wish to give. Nevertheless some few thousands of papers were added to the cataloged collection; approximately 15,000 documents relating to Franklin county estates and belonging to the Franklin County Collection of records, were arranged chronologically in folders and filed in dust-proof, light-proof boxes. All books received during the year were sorted and arranged. The 10,000 tax digests taken over from the comptroller-general were arranged chronologically by county; others by subject or county as the need might be. 216 biographical questionnaires of prominent Georgians were secured and cataloged during the year. This collection of questionnaires, begun twelve years ago, now numbers some 2350. Special efforts were made to obtain the boundary lines of the militia districts of the various counties. These lines can be secured only from local sources since the records were not preserved at the capitol. Letters were written to every county ordinary in the state and these were followed by requests to other officials or the county historian when the ordinary was unable to give the information. The boundaries will be published in the 1931 edition of Georgia's Official Register. To date the records for the counties of Bibb, Chatham, Coffee, Columbia, Cook, Crisp, Effingham, Emanuel, Forsyth, Glynn, Hart, Irwin, Jasper, Long, Marion, Peach, Rockdale, and Whitfield have been received.

Of paramount interest to the department, though not the work of its office force, is the movement initiated by Representative James H. Boykin in a resolution adopted by the general assembly of 1929 to compile the histories of the various counties for deposit in this department on Georgia Day of 1933—our 200th anniversary. These histories are to be written by county historians named by local grand juries and to date 93 counties have made the necessary appointments. The state historian requested some months ago the early co-operation of all superior court judges in the naming of the historians and called a meeting of the appointees, which was held in Atlanta in the Rhodes Memorial Hall March 8th, for the discussion of ways and means of compilation. She has also been in touch by letter with each historian, furnishing suggestions and offering every possible assistance with materials.

The annual audit of the department was made in February last and the books pronounced in order.

The state historian having been elected to office in the summer of 1924 for a six-year term, I respectfully call to your attention the fact that election to this office for the period, Jan. 1, 1931-Jan. 1, 1937, is now due.

In closing I wish to express my very sincere appreciation of the support and co-operation I have received from your board during the past six years. The developments during this time must be a source of gratification to you as well as to myself. To Messrs. H. M. Stanley, W. J. Speer, and George M. Napier, who served with my predecessor, Hon. L. L. Knight, a word of especial appreciation is due. Mr. Stanley was one of a committee of three to arrange for the first quarters for the department and has been a party to every step in our growth. Mr. Speer has attended every annual meeting of the board during our twelve years of existence and has at all times taken the keenest interest in every activity. Colonel Napier, who became a member in 1921, has handled with efficiency many matters relating to the department and its interests.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH BLAIR,

State Historian.

TWELFTH ANNUAL REPORT

STATE HISTORIAN AND DIRECTOR OF THE DEPARTMENT OF
ARCHIVES AND HISTORY OF THE STATE OF GEORGIA

TO THE STATE HISTORICAL COMMISSION,

HON. L. G. HARDMAN,

Ex-Officio Chairman:

The twelve-month period reported on today saw the department of archives and history established in its new home and entered upon a program of expansion made possible by enlarged quarters, comfortable work rooms for staff and visitors, and the quiet necessary for the preparation of historical records. Removal was made possible by Governor Hardman's assuming payment of the heat and light bills for the building after Jan. 1, 1931, and the transfer of records and relics took place early in October, during the renovation of the capitol and the relocating of certain of the state departments. The remaining months of the year were given over to settling into the new home. Needless to say, the work of straightening was considerably handicapped by the number of visitors. For that reason office hours were lengthened to include permanently Saturday afternoons, and the first Sunday afternoon in each month was set apart for open house for the general public. Beginning with the new year the patriotic societies of the state were invited to receive with the staff on these Sunday afternoons and to date the Daughters of the Colonists, the Colonial Dames, the Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, and the Daughters of 1812 have each acted as joint hostesses, inviting particularly on their day their members and friends and displaying, with the state historian, records and relics relating to their war period and society. Joint receptions with other organizations are included in our plans for the future.

According to program, which sets aside the first six months of the odd years for the preparation of the Official Register (the book is given the governor within a few days after he takes office), the last half of our official year was given to compiling and proofreading the volume now in the hands of the printer. This edition, the fifth to be issued, contains the following new material: brief sketches of the state institutions and the courts; transfers of counties to and from the superior court circuits, 1789-1931, with arrangement both by circuit and by county; a numerical listing of the militia districts of the state and the boundaries of these districts for thirty-eight counties; a list of Georgians holding high federal positions outside of the state; and the state democratic platform for 1930.

Included also in the Register is a list of county historians and advisory boards named in the past two years by local grand juries for 127 counties (Burke county has offered a prize of $250 for the best MS. submitted), and the amounts appropriated by 16 counties for the compilation, or the compilation and publication, of the histories. The state historian has been in touch with every appointee relative to the planning of his volume and the sources of material. In this connection, twenty-four of the historians have either done or had done research work in the department of archives and history. Others are arranging to be with us during the next few months. Three histories—Wilkinson, Upson and Coffee—compiled by official historians, have recently been printed. The compilers of the Wilkinson and Upson histories, however, had been at work on their volumes for several years prior to their appointment, and the author of the Coffee county history had served for many years as the ordinary of his county and was well acquainted with the record of his people. In line with our policy of preserving the personal records of present-day benefactors, we have collected biographical details for this group of public servants, the majority of whom are serving without pay.

Cataloging was necessary at a standstill during a greater part of the twelve-month period. A few thousand letters belonging to the early 1800s and a few hundred biographical questionnaires for soldiers of past wars practically completed that division of our work. The sorting and arranging and permanent filing of some 10,000 Wilkes county records taken over in 1930, were completed. Some 75,000 loose, original records of Crawford county, offered the department by the county officials and delivered by the county historian, were received and some few thousands arranged and filed in permanent form—that is, in dust-proof, light-proof boxes. Approximately 5,000 original papers, including correspondence and opinions, were taken over from the attorney-general and received temporary filing, preparatory to cataloging. Eight collections of private papers were received and arranged for immediate use. This collection of private papers, the third division of the manuscript department, is growing in a most satisfactory way. All collections are kept intact and cataloged in the name of the donor or in some name selected by the donor. The Minnie Robertson Smith Collection, which is being built by Mrs. Smith's son, Harvey Smith, is the largest gift of this kind received during the year, and is being constantly added to. In the past three years we have taken over for the state 19 of these memorial collections. Consisting entirely of family records, they yet contain letters from Alex Stephens, Robt. Toombs, Howell Cobb, L. Q. C. Lamar, Wm. H. Crawford, Geo. M. Troup, A. H. Colquitt, H. V. Johnson, L. J. Gartrell and other public men, with the majority of these marked confidential and referring to public affairs.

Several interesting single relics and several collections have been received for the museum. The most important of these is the Joseph Brown Connally Collection of world war material consisting of several hundred items.

The Atlanta Historical Society, housed in the building, has made material additions to its collection of printed Atlantiana. It has also added a number of valuable maps and original drawings of places, fortifications, etc., including all of the original papers of Col. L. P. Grant for the fortification of Atlanta in 1864. Eight drawings of old Atlanta by Wilbur G. Kurtz and several old prints of Atlanta prior to its burning by Sherman are other valuable and interesting additions to the collection.

The department of archives and history now houses the largest collection of state owned paintings of famous Georgians and receives almost weekly gifts of pictorial materials. Public attention was particularly directed to this collection of the department by exhibits of thirty-five miniatures by the late Lucy Stanton, Georgia's internationally-known miniature painter, and by some forty pen and ink sketches of historic Atlanta by Wilbur G. Kurtz. A collection of water colors done by Frank Herring of New York City will be exhibited at an early date.

The program for the incoming year includes in addition to the cataloging, which should always be a major activity, the arrangement of the Crawford county records, the completion of Georgia's civil service records, 1777-1931—a compilation of some 40,000 individual records which we hope to put into print at an early date—and continued work on rosters for five wars, the Revolution, the 1812, the Seminole, the Mexican, and the Spanish-American. These military rosters will consist of brief biographical sketches of the soldiers, rather than a mere list of names. The roster of the war of 1812 will be issued first.

The annual audit of the books took place in May and pronounced the department living within its income. During the past twenty months, however, the state historian has paid from her personal funds bills for the department amounting to around $1800.

Since our last annual report the Rhodes Memorial Building has been insured for $50,000. The last report of the auditor recommends that the contents of the building be insured also and, at the request of the state historian, McIntire, Scott and Knight of Atlanta, have recently evaluated records, paintings, furniture, etc., at $100,000 for insuring purposes. Both the recommendation and the valuation have been placed before the Budget Committee.

Respectfully submitted,

RUTH BLAIR,

State Historian.

HEALTH, STATE BOARD OF

An act of Feb. 25, 1875 provided for a state board of health to consist of nine physicians, one from each congressional district of the state, appointed for six-year terms and known as sanitary commissioners for said districts, and the comptroller-general, attorney-general, and the state geologist; said board to make inquiries in respect to causes of diseases, investigate sources of mortality, and the effects of localities, employments and other conditions upon public health; to supervise registration of births, marriages and deaths, etc. (Acts 1875, p. 32). Small appropriations were made by the general assembly for the work of the state board of health in 1875, 1876 and 1877, after which the board ceased to exist for want of recognition by the state (House Journal 1892, p. 47). Act of Aug. 17, 1903 created the department a second time, providing for a board of twelve members—the secretary and eleven members appointed by the governor (one from each of the congressional districts, and the majority of whom should be physicians) for six-year terms; board to have supervision of all matters relating to the preservation of the life and health of the people of the state, to have supreme authority in matters of quarantine, and to collect and preserve records of births and deaths; executive, secretary (commissioner of health and director of communicable diseases, by action of the board), to be a competent physician elected by the board for six-year terms, who should keep his office in Atlanta, keep a record of the transactions of the board, be custodian of all papers, books and documents and other property belonging to the board, and perform such duties as the board may prescribe (Acts 1903, p. 72). Acts of Aug. 22, 1907 and Aug. 17, 1908 provided for the manufacture and transportation of diphtheria antitoxine and attenuated virus for treating and preventing rabies or hydrophobia, both to be supplied free of charge to the people of Georgia (Acts 1907, p. 19 and 1908, p. 13). Act of Aug. 14, 1909 provided that the state board of health should keep with the several ordinaries of the state a reasonable supply of diphtheria antitoxine to supply physicians for charitable purposes and to sell when purchasers were unable to procure elsewhere at regular retail price (Acts 1909, p. 130). Act of Aug. 16, 1912 provided for a member of the board from the 12th congressional district (Acts 1912, p. 51). Act of Aug. 17, 1914 made the state superintendent of schools and the state veterinarian ex-officio members of the state board of health and provided for county boards of health, to be composed of the county superintendent of schools, the chairman of the board of roads and revenues or in counties having no such board, the ordinary, and a reputable physician elected by the grand jury for four-year terms, said boards to have supervision over all matters relating to health and sanitation in their respective counties; for the division of the state into sanitary districts, each county constituting a district except that two or more counties having a population of less than 37,000 inhabitants may be combined if the combined total does not exceed 75,000 inhabitants, said combination to be made by the state board of health upon recommendation of the county boards of health of the counties concerned; for the appointment of district commissioners of health, who shall be licensed physicians, able bodied, temperate and of good moral character, for four-year terms by the county board, or boards, from an eligible list furnished by the secretary of the state board, said list to contain names of persons examined by the secretary and a committee of the state board; and for the supervision of the work of all district commissioners, who shall give their entire time to the duties of their office, by the secretary of the state board (Acts 1914, p. 124). Act of Aug. 21, 1917 provided that in counties having a city of 60,000-150,000 population the county board of health might appoint as the health officer for such city the district commissioner of health for said county (Acts 1917, p. 106). Act of Aug. 17, 1918 placed under the control of the state board of health the Tuberculosis Sanitarium (created by act of Aug. 17, 1908 and consisting of two departments, one for the treatment of indigent patients, who shall be treated free of charge, and the other a pay department where patients shall be treated upon such terms and for such fees as the board of trustees may prescribe; executive, superintendent, to be a medical doctor with some experience in the treatment of tuberculosis-Acts 1908, p. 101); provided for the election of the superintendent by the state board of health, and changed the name of the institution from Sanitarium to Sanatorium (Acts 1918, p. 237). Act of Aug. 19, 1919 provided for the establishment of the Georgia Training School for Mental Defectives under the direct control of the state board of health, which appoints the superintendent, who shall be a physician scientifically trained in psychiatry and with special training relating to mental deficiency (Acts 1919, p. 377). LEGAL DEPARTMENT

The office of attorney-general existed in Georgia from the establishment of the provincial government in 1754 until the adoption of the constitution of 1789 (appointment of William Clifton Aug. 12, 1754, State Officers-Appointments, 1754–1827, p. 23), being during this period a separate and distinct office of government (see various appointments of attorneys-general). CHAPTER III

JUDICIARY

SUPREME COURT

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: An act assented to in December 1834 and December 22, 1835 (constitutional amendments requiring passage by two-thirds vote of both houses in two successive legislatures) amended the first section of the third article of the constitution, by providing for a supreme court for the correction of errors in law and equity from the superior courts of the several circuits; said court to consist of three judges elected by the legislature and to sit at least once a year in each of five judicial districts to be laid off by the general assembly (Acts 1834, p. 66; Acts 1835, p. 49). Act of Dec. 10, 1845 provided for putting said amendment into effect: judges to be elected by current session of the legislature and after said election terms to be for six years; no person eligible to judgeship until ten years after his admittance to the bar; judicial districts laid out as follows—the First to comprise the Eastern and the Southern judicial circuits, the Second the Southwestern and the Chattahoochee, the Third the Coweta and the Flint, the Fourth the Western and the Cherokee, and the Fifth the Middle, the Northern and the Ocmulgee circuits; all judges to attend at each term, but court might be held by two judges if one were providentially kept away; court to appoint clerk for six-year term, who should attend all sessions, keep minutes of the proceedings, docket of the cases, etc., and whose office should be in the capitol where all records and the seal of the court should remain; judges to elect reporter for six-year term, who should attend all sessions and should publish from time to time the reports so made (Acts 1845, p. 18). Act of Dec. 9, 1858 declared that the decisions of the supreme court that had been or might be concurred in by a full court, should not be reversed, overruled or changed, but should have the same effect as if enacted by the general assembly (Acts 1858, p. 74).

The constitution adopted Mch. 23, 1861 and ratified July 2, 1861 provided that the three judges of the supreme court should be appointed by the governor with the advice or consent of two-thirds of the senate for such terms as might be prescribed by law (art. IV, sec. 2). Act of Dec. 14, 1861, provided six-year terms for judges of the supreme court (Acts 1861, p. 52). The constitution adopted Nov. 7, 1865 provided that the supreme court should be a court alone for the trial and correction of errors in law and equity from the superior courts of the several circuits and from the city courts of Savannah and Augusta and such other like courts as might thereafter be established in other cities; that the court should sit at the seat of government at such time or times in each year as the general assembly should prescribe; and that the three supreme court judges should be elected by the general assembly for such terms of years—not less than six—as might be prescribed by law (art. IV, secs. II, III). Act of Feb. 20, 1866 provided that future sessions of the supreme court should be held in Milledgeville on the first Mondays in June and December (Acts 1865/66, p. 56). Act of Dec. 7, 1866 provided that one of the judges should be styled the chief justice and that when the office of the oldest judge in commission should become vacant by death, resignation or otherwise a chief justice should be appointed or elected to fill said vacancy (Acts 1866, p. 17). The constitution ratified April 1868 provided that the three supreme court judges should be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, for twelve-year terms and that the court should sit at the seat of government at such time in each year as should be prescribed by law (art. V, secs. 2, 9).

The constitution adopted Aug. 25, 1877 and ratified the first Wednesday in December following, provided that the chief justice and two associate justices should be elected by the general assembly in joint session for six-year terms, beginning on the first day of January after their election (art. VI, sec. II, par. IV and sec. III, par. III). Act of Dec. 16, 1895 proposed an amendment to the constitution increasing the number of associate justices to five, providing for the election of the chief justice and the associate justices by the people, with two taking office on Jan. 1 of each odd year, and authorized the court to sit either in a body or in two divisions of three judges each, under regulations to be prescribed by the general assembly (Acts 1895, p. 15); and said amendment was ratified at an election held Oct. 7, 1896. An act of Dec. 17, 1896 provided that from and after Jan. 1, 1897 the supreme court might, in its discretion, sit in a body, of which not less than four justices should constitute a quorum, or in separate divisions of three justices each; the chief justice to designate the two divisions, but the personnel of each division, under his direction and in accordance with such rules as the court might prescribe, to be changed from time to time so that the two divisions would not become permanent in their constituency; the division of which the chief justice shall be a member to be distinguished as the First division and the chief justice to be its presiding justice, the other division to be known as the Second division and its presiding justice to be designated by the chief justice; duties devolving specially upon chief justice to be performed by associate justice longest in commission during absence or disqualification of chief justice; either division of court to have power to issue the writ of mandamus and to take any other action necessary to the perfection of the records according to past practice; either division to render a final verdict in any case argued before it and such verdict to have the same force and effect as if rendered by the whole court, provided the court shall, as far as practicable, endeavor to conduct its proceedings so as to have the concurrence of all justices in all judgments rendered except where there is an express dissent upon the part of one or more of them; every case argued before either division may be considered and decided by the court as a whole, or any one or more justices of the other division may participate in the decision thereof without further argument, but when a case is heard in a division by only two justices, the chief justice shall direct one or more justices of the other division to participate in deciding it, or it may be decided by the court as a whole; when any justice in either division differs from the other two as to any particular case pending, such case shall go to the court as a whole for decision; when the court as a whole decides a case argued before one division only, it may, upon its own motion, order a reargument therein; in all cases decided by the six justices, the concurrence of a majority shall be essential to a judgment of reversal, and if the justices are evenly divided, the judgment of the court below shall stand affirmed; in all cases decided by the court as a whole, with less than six justices, the concurrence of at least three shall be essential to a rendition of a judgment, and if only four justices act upon a case, and they are evenly divided, the case shall be reargued before a full bench, if possible, before the term closes, and if not the judgment of the court below shall stand affirmed; both the minutes and the printed official reports shall show how many and which justices concurred in each judgment rendered, and which, if any, dissented therefrom; and also that section 217 of the Code of 1882 be amended to read as follows, "a decision rendered by the supreme court prior to the first day of January, 1897, and concurred in by three judges or justices cannot be reversed or materially changed except by the concurrence of at least five justices"; unanimous decisions rendered by a full bench of six justices shall not be overruled or materially modified except in the manner pointed out in said section, and then only with the concurrence of six justices (Acts 1896, p. 42.). Jurisdiction: The supreme court shall have no original jurisdiction, but shall be a court alone for the trial and correction of errors of law from the superior courts and the city courts of Atlanta and Savannah, and such other like courts as have been or may hereafter be established in other cities, in all cases that involve the construction of the constitution of the state of Georgia or of the United States, or of treaties between the United States and foreign governments; in all cases in which the constitutionality of any law of the state of Georgia or of the United States is drawn in question; and, until otherwise provided by law, in all cases respecting titles to land; in all equity cases; in all cases which involve the validity of, or the construction of wills; in all cases of conviction of a capital felony; in all habeas-corpus cases; and in all cases involving extraordinary remedies; in all divorce and alimony cases, and in all cases certified to it by the court of appeals for its determination. It shall also be competent for the supreme court to require by certiorari or otherwise any case to be certified to the supreme court from the court of appeals for review and determination with the same power and authority as if the case had been carried by writ of error to the supreme court. Any case carried to the supreme court or to the court of appeals, which belongs to the class of which the other court has jurisdiction shall, until otherwise provided by law, be transferred to the other court under such rules as the supreme court may prescribe, and the cases so transferred shall be heard and determined by the court which has jurisdiction thereof (Acts 1916, p. 19). Eligibility: No person shall be judge of the supreme court unless, at the time of his election, he shall have attained the age of thirty years, shall have been a citizen of this state three years, and shall have practiced law for seven years (Constitution, art. VI, sec. XIV, par. I). Salaries of judges of the supreme court: $7000 (Acts 1920, p. 20). See also Acts 1841, p. 226; 1847, pp. 81, 82, 310, 320; 1849/50, pp. 68, 140,

SUPERIOR COURTS

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: On the establishment of the royal government in Georgia in 1754 courts of judicature were organized. These included a general court, to be held four times a year, for the transaction of civil business and a court of session of oyer and terminer and general gaol delivery to be held twice a year for the consideration of criminal matters (Col. Rec. of Ga., v. 7, pp. 28-31, 40, 42-50). The judges of these two courts were the same and at the close of the colonial period consisted of a chief justice and three assistant judges, one of whom was called the senior judge (Col. Rec. of Ga., v. 12, p. 213; v. 39, pp. 37, 42). The chief justice was an appointee of the king and served during his pleasure with a salary of £500. The assistant judges were appointed by the governor and served without salaries, except on the death or in the absence of the chief justice. The general court held all sessions in Savannah (Col. Rec. of Ga., v. 7, pp. 46, 47). The temporary constitution of Georgia adopted by the provincial congress Apr. 15, 1776 provided for a chief justice and two assistant judges, an attorney general, a provost marshal, and a clerk of the court of sessions, appointed by ballot to serve during the pleasure of congress, and for a court of sessions, or oyer and terminer, to be held on the first Tuesdays in June and December with the former rules and methods of proceedings, as nearly as might be, observed (Rev. Rec. of Ga., v. 1, p. 274).

The constitution adopted Feb. 5, 1777 provided that there should be established in each county a court, to be called a superior court, to be held twice in each year; said court to consist of a chief justice and three or more of the justices residing in the county; in absence of chief justice, the senior justice on the bench to act as chief justice, with the clerk of the county, attorney for the state, sheriff, coronor, constable and the jurors (arts. XXXVI, XL). An act of Mch. 1, 1778 set forth, that by the constitution of the state, circuit courts were established by the style and title of a superior court and that as some doubts might arise with the justices in each county, whose duty it should be to assist in holding such courts, the four assistant and associate judges named therein for each county, should, with the chief justice, hold the several superior courts; and that all writs and other processes triable in said courts should issue either from the chief justice or senior assistant judge of the county (Watkins, p. 219). An act of Aug. 5, 1782 provided that the courts of justice for the trial of all criminal matters or such as are carried on in the name and behalf of the state were declared to be henceforth opened, said courts having been greatly interrupted in their proceedings since the first day of July, 1775 (Watkins, p. 254). An act of Feb. 22, 1785 provided for superior courts in Franklin and Washington counties and named for each county four assistant justices, who were empowered, in the absence of the chief justice, to hold the respective superior courts (Watkins, p. 315). An act of Feb. 13, 1786 provided for four assistant justices in each county, whose power should be equal in transacting public business, and declared them, or a majority of them, fully empowered to continue each session of the superior court in the respective counties to which they belonged for a term not exceeding twenty judicial days (Watkins, p. 338). (Note: the chief justice, with other state house officials, was elected annually by the house of representatives during practically all of the period 1777-1789; the assistant justices served during good behavior. In the adjourned session of 1786 a bill for regulating the magistracy of the state was introduced in the house of representatives. On its second reading, "It was moved to strike the following clause in the said bill, viz., 'And whereas the chief justice has been annually appointed within the periods recited in said bill; who being a justice of the peace ought also to be appointed during good behavior, be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid, that when that office shall again be vacant, it shall be filled up during good behavior.'" The motion carried and the clause was struck out. The bill, however, failed of passage. See MS. House Journal 1786, pp. 504-5, etc.).

The constitution adopted May 6, 1789, effective the first Monday in October following, provided that a superior court should be held in each county twice in every year (art. III, sec. I) and that the judges and attorney general should have competent salaries, which should not be increased nor diminished during their continuance in office, that they should hold their commissions during terms of three years (art. III, sec. 5) and that election should be by the general assembly (art. IV, sec. 2). An act of Dec. 23, 1789 reorganized the superior courts and replaced the chief justice and assistant justices with two superior court judges; divided the counties of the state into the Eastern and Western judicial districts and fixed the times for holding court twice a year in each county; placed the office of attorney general in commission by dividing the duties between two persons styled the attorney-general and the solicitor-general, one to attend the Eastern and the other the Western district and to exercise the functions of their office jointly or severally, prosecuting all delinquents for crimes and offences cognizable under the authority of the said court and all civil actions in which the state should be concerned and giving his or their advice and opinion, in writing if required, on questions of law to the governor or other officer touching any matters that might concern their department (Watkins, p. 389). An act of Dec. 23, 1791 provided that for the more speedy determination and orderly conducting of all causes in the superior court, that the judges with the attorney or solicitor-general should, at the first meeting, frame a set of rules of proceedings and practice for all parties, practitioners and others, which should be the same in all the said counties and which should not be altered but at a meeting of the said judges, attorney or solicitor-general as aforesaid (Watkins, p. 439). An act of Feb. 25, 1796 provided that three superior court judges be immediately elected at an annual salary of $1,400 each; that the state be divided into three judicial circuits of certain named counties; that the judges meet at Louisville on the second Tuesday after each respective circuit for the purpose of forming rules for the government of the court, determining on such points of law as might be reserved for argument and might require a uniform decision, and for giving their opinions on such constitutional and legal points as may be referred for their consideration by the executive department; that the judges report the trial of every criminal case of a capital nature, which should be published as soon as might be after the trial; that the judges, attorney and solicitors-general frame and agree upon a set of rules of proceedings and practice for all parties, practitioners and others in said courts, which should be the same in all counties and which should not be altered but at a meeting of the said judges, attorney and solicitors-general; that the office of attorney general be vested in and the duties thereof performed by three persons to be styled the attorney and solicitors-general, one to attend the Eastern, one the Middle, and the other the Western circuit, who should execute their office jointly or severally (MS. act on file in the state department of archives and history). An act of Feb. 9, 1797 provided that the three superior court judges should preside in each circuit alternately, so that no two terms should be held by the same judge in the same circuit successively; that the judges, attorney-general and solicitors-general meet annually at Louisville on the 10th of July for forming rules of government for the superior courts, etc.; that the judges report every criminal case of a capital nature, which should be published in one of the public gazettes within sixty days after trial (Watkins, p. 619).

The constitution adopted May 13, 1798 provided that judges of the superior courts should be elected for three-year terms and that the state's attorney and solicitors should be elected by the legislature for three-year terms; that their salaries should be adequate to their services and not increased nor diminished during their continuance in office; and that the courts should sit in each county twice in every year (art. III, secs. 1, 2, 3). An act of Dec. 5, 1801 repealed the law requiring the judges of the superior courts to meet annually at the seat of government for determining on such points of law as might be reserved for argument, etc., and provided that in all cases brought in the superior courts, or either of them, where the judge thereof should be interested therein, three or more of the justices of the inferior court should preside at the trial (Clayton, p. 37). An act of Dec. 8, 1806 authorized judges of the superior courts to alternate in their districts (Clayton, p. 328). An act passed first in December 1834 and second, Dec. 22, 1835, provided four-year terms for judges of the superior courts (Acts 1834, p. 66; Acts 1835, p. 49). An act passed first Dec. 23, 1840 and second Nov. 26, 1841 provided four-year terms for the state's attorney and solicitors, who should be appointed by the legislature and commissioned by the governor (Acts 1840, p. 33; Acts 1841, p. 60). An act of Dec. 10, 1841 required judges of the superior courts to write out and place upon the minutes of said courts their decisions in full in cases of motions for new trials, whether rejected or granted, and upon all cases of judgment upon writs of certiorari, mandamus and habeas corpus and demurrer, and upon motions in arrest of judgment, and provided that said decisions should be furnished the governor who was required to cause them, when of general interest to the people to be properly collated, indexed and printed in pamphlet form in editions of five hundred copies, annually in August (Acts 1841, p. 132). An act of Dec. 29, 1847 provided that as the judges of the superior courts were authorized by law to establish, in convention for such purpose, rules of practice for all superior and inferior courts of the state, that all rules of practice for said courts prescribed by any other authorities were declared null and inoperative (Acts 1847, p. 198). An act of Feb. 21, 1850 made it unlawful for judges of the superior courts to express an opinion to or in the hearing of the jury relative to guilt of the accused and provided that in case of such violation the supreme court should hold the verdict to be reversed and grant a new trial with such directions as they might lawfully make (Acts 1849/50, p. 271). An act of Jan. 12, 1852 made it unlawful for the general assembly to elect or appoint the whole or any portion of the judges of the superior courts and provided that each judicial circuit or district elect one superior court judge (Acts 1851/52, p. 85). An act passed first Feb. 7, 1854 and second Dec. 12, 1855 provided that the state's attorney and solicitors should be elected by the people (Acts 1853/54, p. 24; Acts 1855/56, p. 105). An act of Dec. 17, 1860 provided that judges of the superior courts in all cases of felony, or on the final or appeal trial of all civil cases tried before them, should give their charges to the jury in writing and that it should be error for any judges to give any additional charge than that so written out and read (Acts 1860, p. 42).

The constitution adopted Mch. 23, 1861 and ratified July 2, 1861 provided for the appointment of superior court judges, and a state's attorney and solicitors by the governor, with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the senate, for four-year terms (art. IV, sec. 2, par. 1; art. IV, Sec. 3, par. 2). The constitution adopted Nov. 7, 1865 provided that until the legislature should otherwise direct, the judges of the superior court, a state's attorney and solicitors, should be elected for four-year terms the first Wednesday in January, immediately before the expiration of the term for which they had been elected or appointed, by a majority vote of the people in the circuit in which they were to serve, qualified to vote for members of the general assembly (art. IV, sec. II, par. 1 and sec. III, par. 2). The constitution ratified in April 1868 provided that the judges of the superior courts, the attorney general and the solicitors-general should be appointed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the senate, for eight-year terms (art. V, ec. 3, par. 1 and sec. 9, par. 1).

The constitution adopted Aug. 25, 1877 and ratified the first Wednesday in December following, provided that the judges of the superior courts and the solicitors-general should be elected by the general assembly in joint session for four-year terms, beginning on the first day of January after their election (art. VI, sec. III; art. VI, sec. XI, par. I and sec. XII, par. I). An act of Sep. 29, 1879 provided that in all counties in the state having therein a city of 10,000 inhabitants, two or more judges of the superior courts might preside in bank, or said courts might be held in two or more sections at the same time by different judges in separate rooms in the court house under such regulations as the judge of the circuit, or in his absence the senior judge in commission present, might direct; all business other than indictments for felonies embraced within act (Acts 1878-79, p. 149). An act of Dec. 24, 1886 amended the act of Sep. 29, 1879 by providing that all business and all causes, civil or criminal, pending or which might be brought in said courts, should be embraced within said act of Sep. 29, 1879 (Acts 1886, p. 34). An act of Dec. 21, 1897 ratified Oct. 5, 1898 provided that judges of the superior courts and solicitors-general be elected by the electors entitled to vote for members of the general assembly of the whole state at the general election next preceding the expiration of their respective terms; that the terms of the judges and solicitors begin on the first day of January after their election; that every vacancy occasioned by death, resignation, or other causes shall be LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Act of Feb. 25, 1784 provided that the county surveyors of Franklin and Washington counties should lay out in each county twenty thousand acres of land of the first quality, in separate tracts of five thousand acres each, for the endowment of a college or seminary of learning; said land to be granted in trust to a self-perpetuating board of eight trustees, empowered to do all such things as to them shall appear requisite to forward the establishment of the same; surveyors to make returns to the trustees in six months and the land to be exempt from taxes (Watkins, p. 290; Marbury & Crawford, p. 330). Acts of Jan. 27, 1785 provided that the general superintendence and regulation of the literature of the state, and in particular of the public seat of learning, be committed to the senatus academicus, a body composed of the board of visitors (the governor and council, speaker of the house of assembly, and the chief justice) and the board of trustees of the University of Georgia (a group of thirteen men with perpetual succession named in the act); property of institution to be sold only with joint concurrence of the two boards and by act of the legislature, but the leasing, farming and managing of the property to be the business of the trustees; all officers appointed to the instruction and government of the university to be of the Christian faith, but no person to be excluded from any of the privileges of the university for religious reasons; president of the university, with the consent of the trustees, to have power to confer all such honors, degrees and licenses as are usually conferred in colleges or universities; senatus academicus to decide the kind of schools and academies to be instituted in the several parts of the state and to prescribe the branches of instruction for each and to examine and recommend, or appoint persons for that purpose, the instructors to be employed in the several institutions; the president of the university, as often as his duties will permit, and some of the members at least once a year, to visit and examine into their order and performances; all public schools supported by public monies to be considered as parts of the university (Watkins, p. 299; Marbury & Crawford, p. 560). Act of Jan. 26, 1786 appointed three commissioners to fix upon a place for the establishment of the seat of government and the university, said site to be within twenty miles of Galphin's old town; to appropriate from public lands, or to purchase a tract not to exceed one thousand acres and to lay out in lots and streets said town, Louisville; to reserve sufficient land for state house, university and other public buildings and to sell so many of the remaining lots as they shall consider to the public interest; to sell the government house and lot in Savannah and use monies arising from said sale for purchase of lands and erection of said public buildings (Watkins, p. 320; Marbury & Crawford, p. 129). Act of Feb. 3, 1786 requested the trustees of the university to lay out the town of Greensesborough in Greene county on the college survey on Richland creek, originally in Washington county, and after reserving a sufficient number of lots for public buildings to sell the remaining lots and land adjacent, but the land so laid off should not exceed one thousand acres; money arising from sale to be used for the promotion of learning and science (Watkins, p. 322; Marbury & Crawford, p. 162). Act of Dec. 5, 1800 repealed the act of Jan. 26, 1786 so far as it concerned the fixing of the seat of the university and the act of Feb. 27, 1785 so far as it concerned the trustees of the university, setting forth that the said acts had not been carried into effect, that many of the original board had died or removed, and that doubts had arisen as to whether there was in existence a legal board; named thirteen men as a new board, who should collect all funds, papers and books belonging to the university or commence suits for same; and provided that the permanent seat of the university should be in either Jackson, Franklin, Greene, Hancock, Oglethorpe, Wilkes or Warren counties (Marbury & Crawford, p. 563). A joint committee of the general assembly reported Nov. 26, 1800 that there was no meeting of the board of trustees named in 1785 until 1798 and that it would appear that little attention was paid to the funds of the institution during that period (MS. Senate Journal 1800, p. 79). Joint committee on the state of the republic reported Nov. 24, 1801 that the senatus academicus had fixed upon a place in Jackson county by the name of Athens as a permanent seat for the university and had entered into contracts for the immediate erection of a suitable and proper collegiate building, which was then in the state of progression (MS. Senate Journal 1801, p. 217). Act of Nov. 27, 1802 appropriated $5000 as a loan to the trustees of the university to aid in erecting collegiate buildings, trustees first giving bond with security to repay said sum within five years with lawful interest; provided the trustees first deposit in the executive office unconditional relinquishment from Daniel Easley to all claims to lands conveyed by him to John Milledge for the use of the university (Clayton, p. 77). Act of Dec. 10, 1803 authorized the trustees to sell five thousand acres belonging to the university in Hancock county, also such lots and land adjoining the site of the university as they may think proper, after reserving thirty-seven acres for college yard; monies to be used to advance the beneficial purposes of the university (Clayton, p. 142). Act of Nov. 28, 1806 named five commissioners to establish a lottery for raising $3000 to purchase a library for the use of the university (Clayton, p. 308). Act of Dec. 22, 1808 provided for a new personnel of the senatus academicus, which should meet annually in August at Franklin College (Clayton, p. 456). A memorial of the board of trustees to the general assembly relative to the income of the university reported the loss of ten thousand acres granted the university, five thousand in the fork of the Tugaloo and Keowee rivers and falling within the state of South Carolina on the establishment of the boundary line, and five thousand in Jackson county which had been almost entirely recovered at law by individuals claiming same (Senate Journal 1811, p. 50). Act of Dec. 16, 1815 authorized the trustees to sell one tract of land in Greene county, two in Oglethorpe, one in Clarke, and one in Franklin belonging to the university, in lots of one hundred acres each at public outcry; proceeds to be invested in stocks in state or federal banks in the state (Lamar, p. 1058). Resolution of Dec. 18, 1819 appropriated $2000 for erecting edifice for grammar school of Franklin University (Lamar, p. 1216). Act of Dec. 21, 1821 provided that the permanent endowment of the university should consist of not less than $8000 per annum; that when the dividends from bank stock granted the university fell below that sum, the deficit should be paid, semi-annually, by the state treasurer from any funds not otherwise appropriated; authorized trustees to collect and retain $10,000 arising from sale of fractional surveys previous to 1821 and the state treasurer to pay to trustees $15,000 received from purchasers of university lands; said $25,000 to be applied to building new college edifice (Dawson, p. 487). Governor's message of Nov. 7, 1826 reported that a chair of moral philosophy, rhetoric and belles lettres had been added at Franklin College (House Journal 1826, p. 15). Act of Dec. 21, 1830 sets forth that the new college edifice, the library and many of the mathematical and other instruments had been destroyed by fire; appropriated $6000 annually to replace building, library and instruments and for defraying annual expenses, provided the justices of the inferior courts of each county should select one poor boy, fifteen to eighteen years, to be boarded and educated free of charge; and loaned $10,000 until such time as the trustees could repay it from the annual appropriation (Acts 1830, p. 4). Act of Dec. 26, 1831 repealed clause providing for the education of poor boys (Acts 1831, p. 6). Act of Dec. 2, 1841 repealed clause providing an annual appropriation of $6000 to university (Acts 1841, p. 84). Governor's message of Nov. 6, 1855 reported that by the liberality of the late Dr. William Terrell a chair of agriculture had been established and $20,000 donated, the interest from which was to be used for its support (House Journal, 1855/56, p. 28). Act of Dec. 14, 1859 abolished the senatus academicus and transferred its rights, powers, duties and privileges to the board of trustees; board of fifteen visitors appointed annually by the governor to attend the examinations of the classes of the university (Acts 1859, p. 26). Act of Dec. 19, 1859 provided that Joseph Henry Lumpkin, William H. Hull and Thos. R. R. Cobb and their successors be a body corporate and politic under the name and style of the Lumpkin Law School with power to contract, sue, plead, etc., in the several courts of law and equity; to hold and dispose of property, real and personal, for use of said law school; to grant diplomas to graduates, etc. (Acts 1859, p. 84). Governor's message of Nov. 5, 1863 reported the operation of the university suspended when chancellor and entire faculty and a large number of students responded to call for volunteers (House Journal 1863, p. 40) and the message of Dec. 14, 1865 reported that the university would re-open in January 1866 (House Journal 1865/66, p. 65). Governor Smith's message of July 17, 1872 reported that Georgia's land scrip received from the sale of the public lands appropriated the several states by the U. GEORGIA EXPERIMENT STATION, Experiment

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Act of Dec. 24, 1888 accepted the annual appropriation of $15,000 from the United States, made under the acts of congress approved Mch. 2, 1887 and July 18, 1888 for the establishment of agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several states, under provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862 (Acts 1888, p. 45). Act of Dec. 29, 1888 provided for the establishment of an experiment station and experimental farm, to be known as the Georgia Experiment Station, with the specific object of determining the capacity of new plants for acclimation, the manurial value of fertilizers and composts, the making of soil tests and seed tests, the examination of grasses and other plants, the investigation of the growth, requirements and comparative value of different crops, the study of the economic production of milk and butter, and the conducting of such other tests and the making of such other investigations and experiments in the field as are suggested in the act of the federal congress approved Mch. 2, 1887, entitled an act to establish agricultural experiment stations, etc.; said experiment station to be regarded as connected with the Georgia State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts; board of directors to receive offers from counties, communities or persons to donate land and buildings or land and money, but in selecting site for said station to have reference to the central portion of the state, the accessibility of the place offered, the healthfulness of the locality and the adaptibility of the land to represent the variety of soils in the state; $5000 appropriated to carry into effect the provisions of the act (Acts 1888, p. 49). The governor's message of July 3, 1918 to the general assembly reported that Georgia had given practically nothing to the Agricultural Experiment Station and that the U. S. government, after ample warning through the secretary of agriculture, had withdrawn federal funds from the Georgia station on the grounds that the station was not being conducted in conformity with federal regulations which specify that such stations should be under the control of officers of the State College of Agriculture (House Journal 1918, p. 110). A resolution offered in U. S. congress by J. Walter Wise, congressman of the sixth district of Georgia, and passed in 1918, provided that hereafter the secretary of agriculture be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to certify to the secretary of the treasury for payment, and the secretary of the treasury is authorized and directed to pay the appropriation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and all future appropriations to the Georgia Experiment Station, as authorized by the act of Mch. 2, 1887 (24 Stat., p. 440), commonly referred to as the Hatch Act, and the act of Mch. 16, 1906 (34 Stat., p. 63), known as the Adams Act, and all amendments to said acts, in accordance with the act of the general assembly of Georgia approved Dec. 29, 1888, establishing the Georgia Experiment Station, and the act of Aug. 18, 1906, accepting the benefits of the Adams Act, and provided further that nothing herein shall be construed as limiting the authority of the secretary of agriculture over and respecting the supervision of the operation of the said Georgia Experiment Station as set forth in said acts of congress (40 Stat., p. 998). Resolution of Aug. 26, 1925 gave the assent of the state of Georgia to the provisions of an act of congress approved Feb. 24, 1925, entitled an act to authorize the more complete endowment of agricultural experiment stations, and directed that the board of directors receive the annual appropriation made the state (Acts 1925, p. 1584). The board of directors consists of one member from each congressional district (selected from practical and successful farmers) appointed by the governor for five-year terms, a member of the faculty of the Georgia State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts designated annually by the governor, and the commissioner of agriculture and the chancellor of the University of Georgia, ex-officio. (Acts 1888, p. 49). See also the following Acts: 1889, pp. 166, 172; 1893, p. 509; 1906, p. 1161; 1914, p. 12; 1915 Ex., p. 66; and the general appropriation acts. GEORGIA STATE COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE AND MECHANIC ARTS,

Athens

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Governor Johnson in a message to the general assembly, Nov. 6, 1855, reported that the first movement in Georgia in favor of agricultural education had been made by the establishment of a chair of agriculture in the university, supported by the interest from $20,000 donated by the late Dr. William Terrell (House Journal 1855/56, p. 28). An act of Mch. 10, 1866 provided for acceptance of the donation by the United States of such public lands as may be apportioned to Georgia under act of congress, entitled an act for donating public lands to the several states and territories which may provide colleges for the benefit of agriculture and the mechanic arts approved July 2, 1862 and an act extending the time within which the states and territories may accept the grant of lands made by aforesaid act, approved Apr. 14, 1864 (Acts 1865/66, p. 5). Act of Dec. 12, 1866 requested the governor to apply for, receive and sell the lands and land scrip to which the state of Georgia was entitled under the act of congress approved July 2, 1862; to invest the proceeds of said sale or sales in bonds of this state and disburse interest of said investment for maintenance of a college as contemplated by the act of congress; and to provide rules and regulations for the organization and operation of said college until the next session of the general assembly; $2000 appropriated to carry act into effect (Acts 1866, p. 64). Governor Smith's message to the general assembly of 1872 reported that the states were allowed until July 2, 1872 to establish colleges; that the land scrip to Georgia was sold by Acting Governor Conley at ninety cents per acre, or $243,000, of which $50,400 had been received, with the remainder due July 3, 1873; that the time limit for the establishment of the college would expire before the meeting of the general assembly; that the trustees of the University of Georgia, possessing ample powers to establish the college and thereby prevent forfeit of the fund, organized the school Mch. 30, 1872 and that it was operated from May 1, 1872 (House Journal 1872, p. 125). The contract between Governor James M. Smith and the trustees of the university sets forth that the name of the institution should be the Georgia State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts; that the administrative details concerning discipline and schedules of study should be entrusted to the chancellor of the university and the officers provided for the college; that the Civil Engineer School, then a part of the University of Georgia, should be transferred to the College of Agriculture; that free tuition should be granted to as many students, residents of Georgia, as there were members of the general assembly; that the chancellor should open the college in the university high school buildings (Rock College); that without excluding other scientific and classical studies and military tactics, the leading object should be to teach such branches of learning as relate to agriculture and the mechanic arts (House Journal 1890, p. 72). Act of the federal government appropriating land scrip for the establishment of colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts required that said colleges be conducted under military discipline (Acts 1874, p. 426). Act of Feb. 23, 1875 provided that the students of the State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts and of such other departments of the university as may be required by the trustees, should be organized into a body to be known as the University Cadets (Acts 1875, p. 108). Act of Feb. 27, 1875 appropriated $15,000 for laboratory fixtures, etc., the city of Athens having donated $25,000 for a laboratory building (Acts 1875, p. 11). Act of Dec. 24, 1888 accepted the annual appropriation of $15,000 from the United States, made under the acts of congress approved Mch. 2, 1887 and July 18, 1888 for the establishment of agricultural experiment stations in connection with the colleges established in the several states, under provisions of an act approved July 2, 1862 (Acts 1888, p. 45). Act of Dec. 29, 1888 provided for the establishment of an experiment station and experimental farm, to be known as the Georgia Experiment Station, said experiment station to be regarded as connected with the Georgia State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts (Acts 1888, p. 49). Act of July 21, 1906 provided for an agricultural college as a branch of the University of Georgia, which had acquired from its alumni and friends more than five hundred acres of land adjoining the campus at Athens and valued at more than $80,000, for said college (Acts 1906, p. 10). Act of Aug. 18, 1906 provided for the establishment and maintenance of schools of agriculture and mechanic arts in the respective congressional districts of the state, said schools to be branches of the Georgia State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts (Acts 1906, p. 72). Act of Aug. 18, 1924 appropriated $28,000 for meeting the requirements of the Smith-Lever fund (Acts 1924, p. 8). Board of trustees consists of eleven members (who shall be men of skill and experience in agriculture, animal husbandry and horticulture, though not necessarily engaged exclusively in these pursuits), ten of whom shall be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate for six-year terms; three of these shall be named from the trustees of the university, three from the directors of the Georgia Experiment Station, including the commissioner of agriculture, and five from the different sections of the state, thereby securing as far as practicable the representation of each congressional district on the board (Acts 1906, p. 10) and the state superintendent of schools, ex-officio (Acts 1919, p. 288). See also the following Acts: 1871-72, p. 323; 1872, p. 514; 1873, p. 317; 1875, p. 375; 1880-81, p. 103; 1900, p. 79; 1902, p. 734; 1904, p. 762; 1908, pp. 14, 105; 1925, p. 60; 1927, p. 53; and the general appropriation acts; also House Journals 1873, p. 18, 1874, p. 16, 1900, p. 95 and 1918, p. 40. Value of land and buildings, including the University of Georgia proper, as estimated by state auditor, 1931: $2,998,000.

GEORGIA STATE INDUSTRIAL COLLEGE FOR COLORED YOUTHS,
Savannah

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: By an act of July 2, 1862 the U. S. Congress appropriated to each state land grant scrip for thirty thousand acres of public lands for each senator and representative in congress for the purpose of establishing a college or colleges whose chief object should be to teach such branches of learning as relate to agriculture and the mechanic arts; the proceeds of the sale of Georgia's land scrip, amounting to $243,000 were made subject to the order of the trustees of the University of Georgia for the support of these colleges. By act of Mch. 3, 1874 an annual appropriation of $8000 was made to the Atlanta University upon condition that the institution admit free of tuition charge as many colored pupils from each county in the state as there were members in the house of representatives from said county, said pupils to be nominated by said members, respectively; provided the trustees of said institution submit annually a plan for the expenditure of said sum to a board of commissioners (chancellor of the University of Georgia and two members of the faculty of same to be selected by him) and it be approved and filed in the executive office, and that said commissioners have authority to see that said sum be used according to the proposed plan of expenditure; that said appropriation should be in lieu of any claim of the colored population upon the proceeds of the agricultural land scrip; that course of instruction be modified to adapt same to the objects of the grant; that the board of visitors of the state university exercise like functions and powers touching said institution as are prescribed by law for said board in relation to the state university. The Atlanta University received said annual appropriation of $8000, 1874-1887, when a resolution of Sep. 23, 1887 discontinued the sum until a plan of expenditure insuring the exclusive use of same for the education of colored children only had been submitted and approved by the board of commissioners (it was discovered that the Atlanta University matriculated white as well as colored students, and its authorities asserted that they would continue to do so, in violation of the settled policy of this state against coeducation of the races). (House Journal 1890, p. 72) Act of Nov. 26, 1890 provided for the establishment of a school for the education of colored students, as a branch of the University of Georgia; school to be located within or near to the corporate limits of that city or town offering the best inducements, preference being given to such place as shall be of easy access to all the colored people of the state, and suitable buildings to be provided; course of training to embrace studies required by acts of congress approved July 2, 1862 and Aug. 30, 1890, making donations of public lands; one beneficiary for each representative in general assembly from each county in state, selected by county board of education, and tuition free to all students resident of the state; tuition for non-residents not to exceed $50; $8000 appropriated annually to school, said appropriation to be in lieu of any claim of the colored population of the state upon the agricultural land scrip; board of visitors of state university to exercise like functions touching said institutions as are prescribed for said board in relation to the state university; that in regard to the additional donation of the proceeds of public lands made this state by the U. S. under act of Aug. 30, 1890 the general assembly reports to the secretary of the Interior as an equitable division between one college for white students and one institution for colored students, two-thirds of fund for the whites and one-third for the colored; no colored student to be admitted into university and no white student to school for colored pupils (Acts 1890-91, v. 1, p. 114). Suitable buildings for temporary organization of school secured in Athens, and school fully-officered, opened under favorable auspices (House Journal 1891, p. 15). Savannah was chosen for the permanent location of the college and eighty-five acres were acquired by donation and purchase, thirty-five being set aside for the campus and the remainder for the college farm; school opened October 1891 with accommodations for forty students (House Journal 1892, p. 43). MEDICAL DEPARTMENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA,

Augusta

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Act of Nov. 27, 1822 incorporated the Medical Society of Augusta, Georgia (Dawson p. 193). Act of Dec. 20, 1828 provided for the establishment, within the corporate limits of the city of Augusta, of a medical academy for the state of Georgia with power to confer the degree of bachelor of medicine on candidates completing at least one year's study in said institution; that graduates be allowed to practice medicine and surgery in this state in the same manner as they would had they been examined and licensed by the board of physicians of the state of Georgia; and that the board of trustees be empowered to have and use property, real and personal, to an amount not exceeding $100,000 (Dawson, p. 196). Act of Dec. 19, 1829 changed name of institution to the Medical Institute of the State of Georgia and provided for the conferring of the degree of doctor of medicine on applicants attending two full courses of lectures in said institute or one course in institute and one in some other respectable medical college or university, in addition to the usual term of private instruction required by other institutions of a like kind (Dawson, p. 197). Act of Dec. 20, 1833 appropriated $10,000 for procuring a suitable lot of land, erecting the necessary buildings, and securing a suitable library, apparatus and museum for the benefit of the Medical Institute of Georgia; provided that fifty lots on the town common of the city of Augusta be sold for the benefit of said institution, provided the majority of the city council and the trustees of the institute approve same, and changed the name of the institution to the Medical College of Georgia (Acts 1833, p. 130). Act of Dec. 12, 1860 appropriated $10,000 to the Medical College of Georgia on condition that the college educate annually twenty young men, unable to pay their own expenses, selected by the governor, two from each congressional district and four from the state at large (Acts 1860, p. 66). (Note: college closed as a teaching institute and open as a hospital for three years, 1861-64; reopened for teaching on the first Monday in November 1865. Trustees of the Medical College of Georgia approached the trustees of the University of Georgia in 1872 with a resolution, reading in part as follows: "....Whereas there is reason to expect that the board of trustees of the University of Georgia will, at an early day, proceed to establish a medical department of the university; and whereas it is deemed desirable and proper that this institution should be adopted as such medical department, resolved, that we make an overture to said board of trustees at their next meeting, with a view of effecting the incorporation with the university as its medical department...."; the trustees of the University of Georgia at a meeting held Aug. 5, 1872 recommended the proposed connection and the first paragraph of the agreement between the two, recorded July 5, 1873, read as follows: "The proposed union between the Medical College of Georgia and the University of Georgia shall be accomplished as follows,The Medical College of Georgia, shall hereafter be styled The Medical College of Georgia, being the Medical Department of the University of Georgia." Goodrich's History of the Medical Department of the University of Georgia, pp. 201-203.) Act of Nov. 13, 1893 provided that whereas the fifty lots provided for in the act approved Dec. 20, 1833 were not set aside, but that a portion of the academy square, one hundred and forty feet on Telfair street by one hundred and forty feet on Walker street, was granted instead for the use of the Medical College of Georgia, that therefore the trustees of the Academy of Richmond County be authorized to convey to said medical college additional frontage of sixty-eight feet on Walker street (Acts 1893, p. 64). Act of Aug. 1, 1911 authorized the trustees of the University of Georgia to accept a conveyance from the officers of the Medical College of Georgia of title to all property, rights and franchises of the Medical College of Georgia and hold the same for the benefit of the said Medical College of Georgia as the Medical Department of the University of Georgia, and that the chancellor of the University of Georgia be given supervision over the said Medical College of Georgia (Acts 1911, p. 154). The budget and investigating committee reported to the general assembly June 25, 1919 that the city of Augusta supplemented the appropriation to the State Medical College so that it was practically doubled, and also that the college had a ninety-nine year lease instead of fee simple title to the property (House Journal 1919, p. 485). Governor's message of July 2, 1929 to the general assembly reported an annual rental of $5000 paid for the property leased for ninety-nine years, fifteen years of which had been consumed (House Journal 1929, p. 215). Board of directors consists of three members from Richmond county and three from the state outside of Richmond county appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate for six-year terms, and three members from the university board appointed by the chairman of said board for two-year terms (Acts 1911, p. 154; Acts 1910, p. 74). See also the following Acts: 1835, p. 147; 1845, p. 153; 1855/56, p. 279; 1880-81, p. 99; 1884-85, p. 62; 1887, p. 87; 1889, p. 123, and general appropriation acts. Congress appropriated to each state land scrip for thirty thousand acres of public lands for each senator and representative in congress for the purpose of establishing a college or colleges whose chief object should be to teach such branches of learning as relate to agriculture and the mechanic arts; the proceeds of the sale of Georgia's land scrip, amounting to $243,000, was made subject to the order of the trustees of the University of Georgia for the purpose of establishing the Georgia State College of Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts; subsequent to the organization of this college the trustees of the university made an annual appropriation of $2000 of the income from the land scrip fund to organize the North Georgia Agricultural College at Dahlonega (Acts 1875, p. 11), which was made a branch of the Georgia State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts and a department of the university towards the close of the year 1872 (House Journal 1874, p. 16). The act of the federal government appropriating land scrip for the establishment of colleges of agriculture and mechanic arts required that said colleges be conducted under military discipline (Acts 1874, p. 426). The North Georgia Agricultural college was formally opened in January 1873 and during its first session had one hundred and seventy-seven students (House Journal 1874, p. 16). U. S. Mint building donated for said college (by act of congress of Apr. 20, 1871 the secretary of the treasury was authorized to convey to the trustees of the North Georgia Agricultural College the building known as the U. S. Mint at Dahlonega and the ten acres connected therewith on condition that the building be used exclusively for educational purposes—12 Stat. L. p. 503), and later known as the North Georgia Agricultural College, was destroyed by fire Dec. 20, 1878; $10,000 appropriated to replace building by act of Sep. 15, 1881 (Acts 1880-81, p. 18). CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS' HOME,

Atlanta

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: A home for destitute and infirm Confederate soldiers was erected near Atlanta in 1889 by voluntary contributions of the people and remained unoccupied for twelve years (House Journal 1901, p. 29); in 1890 a bill (#272) was introduced in the general assembly by Representative Cutts of Sumter county offering the building and one hundred and nineteen and one-fourth acres of land, secured at a cost of about $45,000, to the state upon the sole condition of maintenance, and failed to pass (House Journal 1890, pp. 244, etc.); again in 1900 the same property was tendered the state upon the same condition, i. e., maintenance for twenty years or such period as the number of inmates might justify or require (later to be disposed of as the general assembly may deem best) and was accepted, the bill being signed by the governor Dec. 19, 1900; this bill provided for an appropriation of $15,000 for furnishings and maintenance when forty applicants had been accepted, vested control of the institution in a board of trustees, who elect the superintendent, and specified that ex-Confederate soldiers, honorably discharged, residents of the state for five years and unable to maintain themselves, may be admitted and shall be furnished with food, lodging, clothing, medicine and medical attention and decent burial, but said inmates may not draw a pension (Acts 1900, p. 86). Home was opened June 3, 1901 and burned Sep. 30, 1901; a temporary home was rented on Marietta street and the insurance on building and furniture, $21,500, supplemented by contributions from the public, rebuilt the house without cost to the state, the new structure being accepted by the building committee Aug. 26, 1902 and formally opened Sep. 24, 1902 (House Journal 1901, p. 29; Acts 1901, p. 14; Minutes, Board of Trustees, pp. 52, 92). Act of Aug. 17, 1908 authorized the trustees to sell a narrow strip of land separated from the remainder of the property by the extension of Confederate avenue and to use the proceeds in the maintenance or improvement of the Home (Acts 1908, p. 103). Act of Aug. 19, 1919 provided for an annual appropriation of $5,000 to furnish $1 weekly for each Confederate soldier, an inmate of the Home (Acts 1919, p. 38). Act of Aug. 16, 1920 provides for maintenance by the state of the Confederate Soldiers' Home for ten years from June 3, 1921 or such period as the number of inmates or applicants may justify, and that

GEORGIA ACADEMY FOR THE BLIND,

Macon

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Act of Dec. 25, 1845 provided for the education of the indigent deaf, dumb and blind, ten to forty years of age, at the Cedar Valley Academy in Paulding county, or some other academy approved by the governor as able to provide the same kind of education that could then be acquired at the American Asylum at Hartford, Conn., and on terms equally economical as those at the said American Asylum (Acts 1845, p. 25). The governor's message to the general assembly, Nov. 2, 1847, reported that the education of the indigent deaf, dumb and blind at the Hearn Manuel Labor School in this state (Floyd county) had been successful (House Journal 1847, p. 27). The report of a joint committee to the general assembly, Oct. 25, 1901, contained the following: "The Georgia Academy for the Blind had its origin in a private manner. A number of citizens of Macon met on Apr. 15, 1851 and organized themselves into a body for the purpose of educating the blind. They subscribed a fund of $802 to support the institution...." (House Journal 1901, p. 86). Act of Jan. 19, 1852 provided for the incorporation of the Georgia Academy for the Blind; trustees of said academy empowered to receive all gifts, grants, etc., which then belonged to said academy or might thereafter be made to it, to establish rates of tuition, etc.; indigent blind, twelve to thirty years, maintained and educated gratuitously (Acts 1851/52, p. 4). Act of Dec. 21, 1853 authorized the superintendent of the

W. & A. Railroad to pass free of charge lunatics and idiots and their conductors on their way to and from the Lunatic Asylum and the deaf, dumb and blind pupils when going to and returning from their schools (Acts 1853/54, p. 97). Act of Feb. 18, 1854 appropriated $10,000 for the erection in Macon of a suitable building for the Blind Academy (Acts 1853/54, p. 14). Act of Mch. 1, 1856 appropriated $20,000 for the erection of buildings at the Institute for the Blind (Acts 1855/56, p. 10). Act of Dec. 18, 1857 appropriated $35,000 additional towards erection of said buildings (Acts 1857, p. 11). Resolution of Nov. 28, 1862 required all tax payers, in giving annual returns, to report number, age and sex of all blind, deaf and dumb children in family (Acts 1862, p. 106). Act of Sep. 13, 1881 appropriated $10,000 for organizing under the direction and management of the trustees, a department for the accommodation of the colored youths of this state (Acts 1880-81, p. 16). Act of Sep. 26, 1883 provided that all indigent blind persons, seven to twenty-five years, residents of the state two years, should be selected from the different counties and supported and educated gratuitously to the extent the funds would permit (Acts 1882-83, p. 61). Act of Sep. 28, 1883 appropriated $500 for necessary expenses of pupils selected by the trustees for surgical or medical treatment for blindness (Acts 1882-83, p. 33; note: patients treated without charge by Dr. A. W. Calhoun of Atlanta, House Journal 1884, p. 38). Act of Aug. 13, 1904 authorized the trustees to sell the lot and buildings between Orange and College streets in Macon occupied by the Georgia Academy for the Blind for not less than $50,000 and to purchase near the city of Macon not less than twenty acres of land and erect thereon all necessary buildings for said institution, same to be not more than two stories in height and of the most modern design for the accommodation, protection and education of blind children; also to suspend the operations of said academy for one scholastic year (Acts 1904, p. 89). Act of Aug. 19, 1905 set forth that the trustees having sold the Academy for the Blind for $50,000 and spent $12,000 of said sum for twenty acres of land near city of Macon on which to erect new buildings, that having suspended the operation of the academy for the blind white children from August 1904 to September 1906, there remained of the appropriation for 1905, after allowing maintenance for the academy for the blind colored children, approximately $9,000; therefore authorized the trustees to add said $9,000, together with $267.55 remaining from the previous extra appropriation for repairs for said academy to the $38,000 remaining from the sale, and apply such fund to the erection and equipment of the new buildings; also to apply so much of the annual appropriation for maintenance of said academy for 1906 as may not be needed for support during said year (Acts 1905, p. 1252). Act of Aug. 20, 1906 appropriated $65,000 for completion and equipment of said academy (Acts 1906, p. 14). Board of seven trustees is self-perpetuating, with elections reported to the governor (Acts 1851/52, p. 4); state superintendent of schools, ex-officio member (Acts 1919, p. 288). See also the following Acts: 1860, p. 35; 1861, p. 85; 1862, p. 17; 1863, p. 12; 1889, p. 16; 1892, p. 20; 1893, p. 10; 1900, p. 504; 1901, p. 738; 1909, p. 1571; 1911, p. 1685; 1917, p. 985; 1919, p. 1413; 1921, p. 1176; 1922, p. 14; 1924, p. 7; 1925,

GEORGIA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF,

Cave Spring

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Resolution of Dec. 21, 1833 provided that the memorial of John J. Flournoy, praying the establishment of a school for the education of the deaf and dumb, be referred to the governor for the purpose of obtaining a full investigation of the subject (Acts 1833, p. 363). Resolution of Dec. 20, 1834 set forth that the proportion of deaf and dumb to the population as far as ascertained in Europe and America was about one person to every two thousand; that by the 1830 census Georgia had one hundred and forty-five deaf and dumb (fifty under age fourteen, fifty-one between fourteen and twenty-five, and forty-four over age twenty-five); that assuming twenty-five as the probable number needing the aid of government and $150 as annual expense of each the ratio was not large enough to justify the expense of a separate state institution; that the sum of $3000 be appropriated for the education of indigent deaf and dumb, twelve to twenty years, in such manner as general assembly may deem best; that our senators and representatives in congress make every effort to secure for each state a township of the public land for creating a fund, the interest of which should be appropriated to the education of indigent deaf and dumb; that this state will appropriate $10,000 as soon as two or more of her neighboring states will co-operate with her for the purpose of endowing a southern institution for the education of deaf and dumb to be located at such place and organized in such manner as may be determined (Acts 1834, p. 281). Act of Dec. 20, 1834 appropriated $3000 for the education of the deaf and dumb (Acts 1834, p. 25). Resolution of Dec. 20, 1834 provided for the appointment by the governor of a commissioner, authorized to draw for the fund appropriated for the indigent deaf and dumb; to pass on applications; to keep full records of beneficiaries, expenditures, etc.; to make necessary arrangements for conveying said indigent deaf and dumb to the American Asylum at Hartford, Conn., and for their expenses at said institution (Acts 1834, p. 307). Resolution of Dec. 22, 1835 reported that the Rev. Elijah Sinclair had been appointed commissioner, that he had traveled in twenty-five counties in the state in search of pupils and that he had sent six boys to the American Asylum; appropriated $4450 for the education, support and clothing of twenty-six indigent deaf mutes in 1836 and provided for annual appropriation of said amount for said purposes; provided also that commission should have discretion to select under certain circumstances deaf mutes under twelve years of age (Acts 1835, p. 330). (Note: appropriation bill of 1835 did not include the $4450 item for the deaf and dumb, probably because more than $2000 of previous appropriation remained unspent, but provided $750 for the services of the commissioner.) Resolution of Dec. 28, 1836 set forth that the benevolent designs of the state for the relief of indigent deaf and dumb had not been fully realized, perhaps mainly to a great aversion of parents to submit to the separation, and that out of sixteen fit subjects only three could be induced to go to the American Asylum (Acts 1836, p. 1 of resolutions). Act of Dec. 29, 1838 provided for the appointment of a commissioner, who should hold office during the pleasure of the governor, to receive applications of indigent deaf and dumb, ten to forty years of age and citizens of the state, and to make necessary arrangements for conveying such beneficiaries to the American Asylum at Hartford, Conn., to remain not longer than four years; appropriated $4500 annually for support of said deaf and dumb as provided by said act (Acts 1838, p. 92). Resolution of Dec. 25, 1843 set forth that the trustees of the Cedar Valley Academy of Paulding county had reported to the governor a successful experiment in the teaching of the deaf and dumb in said academy for two years previous, that good policy required the teaching of this portion of the population within the state, provided it could be done as beneficially as elsewhere and requested the governor to enquire into the propriety of having the indigent deaf and dumb educated at Cedar Valley Academy or elsewhere in the state (Acts 1843, p. 198). Act of Dec. 25, 1845 repealed laws relating to the American Asylum at Hartford, Conn., provided the same kind of education could be acquired at the Cedar Valley Academy or some other academy in the state approved by the governor, and authorized the return of the Georgia beneficiaries from the said American Asylum (Acts 1845, p. 25). Governor's message of Nov. 2, 1847 reported that the education of the deaf and dumb.

and the blind at the Hearn Manual Labor School in this state (Floyd county) had been successful; that the beneficiaries who were at Hartford were removed to the school early in 1846 and that their number had increased to fourteen (House Journal 1847, p. 8). Act of Dec. 16, 1847 provided for the establishment of the Georgia Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb; for a board of five commissioners (the instructor of the deaf and dumb beneficiaries and four members appointed by the governor for one-year terms, with the majority residents of the county in which the asylum is located), who should purchase forty acres more or less and have erected the requisite buildings, said asylum to be not more than five miles distant from the place at which the deaf and dumb were then instructed, provided that not more than one-half of the appropriation of 1848 plus the unexpended appropriation of 1847 be spent for land and the erection and furnishings of buildings; beneficiaries to be between ten and thirty years of age and pupilage to continue not more than four years; office of commissioner of deaf and dumb abolished (Acts 1847, p. 94). Act of Dec. 21, 1853 authorized the superintendent of the W. & A. Railroad to pass free of charge lunatics and idiots and their conductors on their way to and from the Lunatic Asylum and the deaf, dumb and blind pupils when going to and returning from their schools (Acts 1853/54, p. 97). Act of Feb. 17, 1854 provided that all deaf and dumb persons, seven to twenty-four years of age, should be entitled to the benefits of the asylum and the term of pupilage should be extended to six years (Acts 1853/54, p. 30). Act of Dec. 14, 1858 changed name of the institution to the Institution for the Education of the Deaf and Dumb, etc. (Acts 1858, p. 47). Resolution of Nov. 28, 1862 required all tax payers in giving annual returns to state number, age and sex of all blind, deaf and dumb children in family (Acts 1862, p. 106). Report of legislative committee, Dec. 2, 1862, shows school work in institution discontinued and live-stock, wagons, blankets, etc., sold off (House Journal 1862, p. 222). Act of Dec. 15, 1862 repealed annual appropriation (Acts 1862, p. 18). Message of Governor Jenkins, Nov. 1, 1866, reported that he had not caused the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb to be reopened, since prompt pecuniary aid would have been required (House Journal 1866, p. 23). Act of Dec. 13, 1866 appropriated $8000 for support and education of the deaf and dumb and $2500 for repairs of the asylum buildings (Acts 1866, p. 6). Act of Oct. 9, 1868 provided that all deaf and dumb children should be educated free of charge; that clothing should be furnished pupils by the institution upon certification of the ordinary that parents or guardians were unable to supply same; that shoes should be furnished all without distinction; that the board of commissioners might select some educated young men of state desiring to learn the sign language, on condition that they obligate themselves to teach in institution as many years as the board might agree to at the time of entrance; etc. (Acts 1868 Ex., p. 12). Act of Feb. 25, 1876 provided that all deaf and dumb persons in state, ten to twenty-seven, in a condition mentally and physically to receive instruction be entitled to all the benefits of said instruction (Acts 1876, p. 117). Act of Feb. 23, 1876 appropriated $2000 for the purchase of suitable property for the accommodation of the colored deaf and dumb mutes of the state, under the same rules that governed the white department; property to be located at Cave Spring and cost not to exceed appropriation (Acts 1876, p. 117). Act of Feb. 24, 1877 authorized admittance of pupils between eight and twenty-seven years and extended the term of pupilage to seven years (Acts 1877, p. 31). Act of Aug. 9, 1881 provided for the admittance of day pupils (Acts 1880-81, p. 96). Act of Dec. 17, 1892 changed name of institution to Georgia School for Deaf (Acts 1892, p. 83). Act of Dec. 21, 1893 appropriated $5500 for suitable buildings for instruction of pupils in mechanical and industrial trades (Acts 1893, p. 9). Act of Dec. 24, 1896 fixed ages of pupils from seven to twenty-five years, none to remain longer than twelve terms; shoes from shop furnished all pupils free of cost and clothing and railroad fare furnished upon certificate of ordinary that parents or guardians were unable to supply same; pupils having no homes to be provided for during vacation by the boards of commissioners of their counties or other proper authority (Acts 1896, p. 83). Act of Dec. 19, 1900 provided for the appointment of an ear, eye and throat specialist (Acts 1900, p. 504). Board of trustees consists of seven members appointed by the governor for indefinite terms (Acts 1877, p. 32) and the state superintendent of schools, ex-officio (Acts 1919, p. 288). MILLEDGEVILLE STATE HOSPITAL,

Milledgeville

LEGISLATIVE HISTORY: Act of Dec. 26, 1837 authorized the governor to appoint two fit and proper persons to superintend the erection of a lunatic asylum to be located in some central point in the state approved by the governor, under the advice of medical gentlemen; one person (to be entitled to reasonable extra compensation to be fixed by succeeding general assembly) to go to Columbia, S. C., or elsewhere in U. S., where there is a lunatic asylum to obtain the best information within reach; committee to exercise discretion in regard to material, size, architecture and construction of edifice best adapted to such an institution and also to the probable cost of building, contracting as early as may be convenient with competent individual to commence work as soon as practicable; legislature expressly and emphatically imposed on committee the solemn enactment to visit the work once a week, etc., and to report to the next general assembly; committee to give bond of $10,000; governor to appoint some intelligent medical gentlemen and a suitable individual to collect information as to proper internal regulations and police of such institutions and report to following general assembly (Acts 1837, p. 34). Act of Dec. 23, 1837 appropriated $20,000 for erection of lunatic asylum (Acts 1837, p. 27). Doctors Tomlinson Fort and B. A. White appointed to direct construction of building, etc. (governor's message to general assembly Nov. 6, 1838; House Journal 1838, p. 113). A resolution of Dec. 31, 1838 set forth the report of the commissioners of the Lunatic Asylum: that it had been ascertained that the proportion of insane persons was one person per thousand of the entire population, that medical men believed that suitable treatment of such persons in an asylum frequently tended to restore the unfortunates to their reason and that the previous general assembly planned an asylum for the insane and appropriated $20,000 of which the committee had expended $4,000 for a suitable site for the buildings; and provided that the commissioners be requested to have constructed upon the site selected the necessary buildings, etc. (Acts 1838, p. 284). Site chosen for location of asylum contained sixty acres of land lying two miles due south from the state house (report of Fort and White to general assembly; House Journal 1838, p. 432). Act of Dec. 21, 1839 appropriated $5000 towards the erection of the lunatic asylum (Acts 1839, p. 15). Act of Dec. 23, 1840 appropriated $9,000 towards the erection of the lunatic asylum (Acts 1840, p. 16). Act of Dec. 10, 1841 provided that the government of the state lunatic asylum at Midway be vested in a board of three trustees appointed annually by the governor for three-year terms; that as soon as the asylum should be ready for the reception of lunatics, idiots, epileptics or insane persons, it should be made known by the proclamation of the governor; superintendent to be a physician and reside constantly at the asylum; trustees to remove from office and cause to be prosecuted any person employed by them in said institution who shall assault any inmate of said institution or use towards such any greater violence than may be absolutely necessary for the patient's government, restraint or care; trustees to receive and hold in trust any grant of lands, or donation of money or other personal property for the maintenance of insane persons or general use of the institution; asylum to be visited monthly by one or more of the trustees, semi-annually by the majority, and annually by the entire board; justices of the inferior court to make commitments, but the nearest of kin of the lunatics or epileptics so investigated to be notified ten days before the trial; lunatics or epileptics, county or city paupers, to be committed for a sum not exceeding actual expenses of support; expenses of all inmates admitted to be paid by the county of their residence unless other sufficient security shall have been taken for their support; no lunatic or epileptic not a resident of the state to be received until satisfactory arrangements shall have been made for their support and discharge or burial expenses; no lunatic or epileptic, who shall have recovered his senses, to be discharged without suitable clothing, to be furnished by the trustees at their discretion, together with such sum of money as they may think proper, not exceeding $10; trustees to discharge upon application in writing, after cause of confinement shall have ceased, any lunatics or epileptics; $10,000 appropriated for completing and furnishing building then nearly finished, and defraying expenses of institution for one year (Acts 1841, p. 153). Committee report to the general assembly of 1841: the number of white inhabitants of the state of Georgia, who are idiots and insane, is ascertained to be near three hundred; add to this epileptics and the number will probably be about five hundred (House Journal 1841, p. 319). Act of Dec. 28, 1842 provided for the commitment to the asylum of such of the convicts in the penitentiary as were, or might become, lunatics; for the discontinuance of a resident physician at the said asylum until, in their opinion, the same should be necessary and to employ such medical aid as the number and condition of the inmates may demand, not to exceed $200 annually; etc. (Acts 1842, p. 22). Act of Dec. 28, 1843 provided that the pauper lunatics, epileptics or idiots, residents of the state, be supported in the asylum at public expense and that the governor be authorized to draw from the treasury a sum not exceeding $50 per annum for the support of every such lunatic (Acts 1843, p. 9). Act of Dec. 24, 1845 appropriated $10,000 to complete the building designed for the accommodation of the male patients at the asylum, $1,500 to pay the salary of the superintendent and resident physician, etc. (Acts 1845, p. 4). Act of Feb. 22, 1850 appropriated $3000 to buy such land in the vicinity of the asylum as may be deemed important and necessary to the interests of the institution; $2500 for the building of an infirmary; $2000 for erecting a separate building for the epileptics; etc. (Acts 1849/50, p. 17). Governor's message of Nov. 8, 1853 stated that there was one class of lunatics for whom no provision had been made—the slaves, and recommended a tax on all slave owners to care for them (House Journal 1853/54, p. 21). Act of Feb. 18, 1854 appropriated $3000 for purchasing lands lying between the asylum and the Oconee river and Camp creek; also $3000 for purchasing individual servants for the asylum who had been long employed and found peculiarly valuable to the institution; and authorized the governor to appoint five persons from different sections of the state to determine upon the necessary buildings to be erected for the additional accommodation of lunatics, and upon their report to draw such sums and at such times as the progress of the building should require, provided the estimate should not exceed $50,000 (Acts 1853/54, p. 81). Act of Dec. 21, 1853 authorized the superintendent of the W. & A. Railroad to pass free of charge all lunatics and idiots and persons having them in charge on their way to and from the lunatic asylum (Acts 1853/54, p. 97). Section 1308 of the Code of 1861 provided that apartments must be provided for insane slaves belonging to citizens of this state and free negroes resident of the state; the masters or free negroes able, to pay for their support; those unable, to be supported as other pauper patients; the certificate of the justices of the inferior court of the county where the owner of slave or free negro resided, of his condition, mentally and pecuniarily, to be sufficient to grant patient admittance (Code adopted by the general assembly of Georgia by an act approved Dec. 19, 1860 and made effective Jan. 1, 1862; operation of Code suspended until Jan. 1, 1863—Acts 1860, p. 24, 1861, p. 28). General appropriation act of (Dec. 13) 1866 provided $10,000 to prepare suitable buildings for persons of color (Acts 1866, p. 6). Resolution of Aug. 26, 1872 set forth that lunatics, idiots and epileptics were confined in the same asylum; that such confinement was, in the opinion of medical men, deleterious to each class; that there were lunatics sufficient to fill the asylum; and therefore that the governor be requested to cause the trustees to select some appropriate place, sketch a design for a commodious and suitable building for idiots, epileptics and inebriates, with an estimate of the probable cost, etc., and report same to the next general assembly (Acts 1872, p. 528). Act of Feb. 27, 1877 provided that the lunatic asylum should be free to all lunatics, idiots, epileptics, and demented inebriates, resident of the state (Acts 1877, p. 113). Act of Aug. 11, 1879 appropriated $25,000 and the walls and buildings of the old penitentiary for enlarging the buildings for colored patients, fitting up rooms in the main building, and making other repairs (Acts 1878-79, p. 17). Act of Aug. 15, 1879 permitted superintendent to refuse admittance to harmless idiots and other harmless subjects not requiring treatment as long as there were recent and dangerous cases unprovided for (Acts 1878-79, p. 424). Act of Sep. 8, 1881 appropriated $165,431 for building a hospital, recreation hall, two convalescent wards, two buildings for colored male and female patients on lands adjacent to the present asylum, etc. (Acts 1880-81, p. 15). Act of Dec. 8, 1897 provided for the admission of women physicians to written competitive examinations with male physicians in filling any vacancy that might occur in the corps of assistant physicians, as it was the purpose to have at least one woman physician as assistant physician at the asylum (Acts 1897, p. 110). Act of Dec. 21, 1897 changed name of institution to the Georgia State Sanitarium, effective Sep. 1, 1898 (Acts 1897, p. 109). Resolution of Dec. 19, 1899 approved the creation of the chair of dental surgery in the sanitarium by the board of trustees (Acts 1899, p. 521). Act of Aug. 13, 1910 appropriated $15,000 for the erection and equipment of buildings at the sanitarium for the treatment of insane persons with tuberculosis (Acts 1910, p. 11). Act of Aug. 15, 1910 provided for a two-year course of training, instructions and lectures and the granting of diplomas to white female nurses while employed at the sanitarium (Acts 1910, p. 128). Act of Aug. 19, 1916 provided for the training of white male nurses while employed in the sanitarium and established a three years' course of instruction, lectures and training for both male and female nurses (Acts 1916, p. 111). Act of Aug. 20, 1918 revised law relative to commitments, specified the classes eligible and those ineligible for admittance, and provided that lunatics, idiots, epileptics and demented inebriates whose estates do not exceed $3000 or sufficient to provide for them, should be admitted for such reasonable board and keep as may be fixed by the trustees, etc. (Acts 1918, p. 162). Act of Aug. 20, 1929 changed name of institution to the Milledgeville State Hospital (Acts 1929, p. 324). Board of trustees consists of nine members appointed by the governor for six-year terms, three of whom are named on the first Monday of December of each odd year (Acts 1916, p. 40); one member of the board shall be a competent physician (Acts 1878-79, p. 170); and no two members shall be from the same county (Acts 1916, p. 39). STATE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

We, the state democratic party in convention assembled, being mindful of the disasters which are being visited upon the people on account of the departure of both our national and state governments from the principles of democratic government as enunciated by Jefferson and enforced by a long and illustrious line of democratic presidents and governors, and feeling that our hope of relief lies in an immediate return to the old landmarks and traditional policies of our beloved party, do declare and publish this platform of principles and bespeak its translation into the laws and policies of our state and federal governments, as the same may be applicable.

We depreciate the fact that on account of excessive appropriations in the past, there exists a deficit in our state treasury. This deficit constitutes a debt due and owing by the state to the old confederate veterans and to its various institutions, and the mandates of justice require that it be paid as speedily as possible. In meeting this obligation, the necessary funds must be rendered available without increasing the burdens which have hitherto rested so heavily upon those taxpayers who have borne more than their just share. We, therefore, recommend that our law making authorities reorganize and simplify our state government and readjust the tax burdens, as hereinafter declared for, and use the savings and increased income derived from these sources first for the retirement of this debt. We further recommend that strict and rigid economy be practiced by all of the state departments and institutions and especially until the present deficit can be liquidated, and that, in making appropriations in the future, provision be made for the systematic retirement of the public debt.

In view of the present depressed conditions of business, we appeal to the people for their continued patience and loyal support in meeting the heavy burdens which confront the incoming governor's administration.

BUDGET SYSTEM

In order that the state's financial affairs may be restored to a sound basis and kept that way, we favor a budget system to be rigidly followed and which shall not only keep all appropriations within the limits of the state's current revenues, but which shall provide for the gradual but regular retirement of the public debt. Any appropriation bill which exceeds the current revenues of the state should be promptly vetoed, but in the event this is not done all funds appropriated should be impartially prorated among those entitled to receive them.

REORGANIZATION AND SIMPLIFICATION OF GOVERNMENT.

The administrative machinery of our state government as now constituted consists of fifty boards, bureaus, departments and commissions. As a result the responsibilities of the administrative departments of our state government are so divided that it is impossible for the electorate to definitely fix the responsibility for any default that may occur. Furthermore, there is much duplication and overlapping of effort among the various departments and the whole system is topheavy, cumbersome, inefficient and far too expensive in proportion to the work done and good accomplished. We favor a businesslike reorganization of all the departments of our state government in order that these evils may be corrected and an efficient and economic administration of the people's affairs may be had by responsible department heads.

TAXATION

Under the present ad valorem system, the burdens of taxation rest too heavily upon the owners of real estate and other visible property. We favor an amendment to the state constitution authorizing the classification of property for taxation. This would make it possible to so classify property as to enable property owners to return all of their notes, bonds and similar properties for taxation without the fear of a confiscatory rate being imposed, as would be the case under the present system. This plan would more equitably adjust the tax burdens of our people.

COUNTY AND MUNICIPAL RETRENCHMENT

As only a small percentage of the total amount of the taxes derived by our ad valorem system is used for state purposes and the chief burden is due to county and municipal levies, we recommend that county and municipal authorities join the state government in a policy of retrenchment and economy to the end that substantial relief may result to the taxpayers.

EDUCATION

There is no higher or more important function of government than that of educating the children. In recognition of this fact, we must continue our policy of improving the schools of the poorer counties and rural sections of our state, to the end that the boys and girls of these sections shall have equal educational opportunities with those who live in the wealthier and more populous centers. Our goal should be a nine month term in all of the common schools of the state and at the same time we should adequately maintain and support our institutions of higher education.

SCHOOL BOOKS

In order that the excessive prices now being charged for school books may be reduced, we favor the granting of legislative authority to the state to contract with copyright owners, buy plates and contract for the printing of school books for use in the public schools and to furnish them to the children of school patrons at cost.

HIGHWAYS

The state highway department is now receiving ample revenue from special taxes levied for the purpose to enable it to rapidly complete the state aid system of roads without a bond issue. We oppose the diversion of any of the funds allocated to this department to any other purpose, and favor the exclusive use of the same in constructing and maintaining our state highway system. We recommend that the policy of requiring the counties to participate in and make financial contribution toward the building of roads belonging to the state be abandoned, and urge that our highway system be completed as speedily as possible, consistent with economy, efficiency, and the character of work to be done.

CORRUPTION IN GOVERNMENT

Corruption in government has manifested itself in recent years to an alarming extent. It has raised its ugly head in high officers of our national government, its slimy trail is too often found in our state governments, and its menacing form has appeared in many municipal governments. Attempts to purchase offices through the expenditures of enormous campaign funds have shocked the moral sense of the nation, and graft, lobbying and corruption of public officials have become a challenge to democratic government.

We favor the strengthening and strict enforcement of our criminal laws with regard to corrupt practices of these kinds and recommend that prompt and inexorable punishment be meted out to those who are proved guilty of violating them. Honesty in government and a sacred regard for public trust are essential to the perpetuity of our free institutions.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

We favor the faithful, impartial and vigilant enforcement of the laws of the land and the protection of the individual rights of the citizen. The eighteenth amendment and all laws enacted pursuant thereto should be strictly enforced.

PUBLIC UTILITIES

Public utility corporations are intended to serve the people and not to dominate their governmental affairs. Effective and necessary laws, rules and regulations should be formulated and enforced (a) to insure a reasonable return on the investment in properties actually engaged in the public service, (b) to enable them to efficiently meet the requirements and properly serve the needs of the public, (c) to require from them a fair and just contribution to the necessary expenses of government, and (d) to keep them subservient to government and to the public weal.

LABOR

We recognize the right of labor to organize without coercion and interference and to bargain collectively.

PARTY GREETINGS

We extend our greetings to the democratic party of the nation and pledge our full cooperation toward our party's success in the approaching general elections. The era of corruption during republican rule, followed by the present financial depression bordering on panic, augurs success to the democratic party and a return to Jeffersonian principles of government. The excessive appropriations under the present republican administration, the iniquities of the recent "robber" tariff bill, the unrelieved condition of our agricultural people, and the enactment of special legislation for the benefit of privileged classes have caused the masses to turn to our party for relief. We shall not fail them, and the democratic party of Georgia calls upon the voters to rise to their responsibilities and duties and help national democracy to redeem our government from the control of those who are despoiling the many for the benefit of the privileged few.

We felicitate the people of Georgia upon the elimination of the destructive influences of factionalism in our state government, as expressed in our recent primaries, and upon the prospect of harmony and progress in the administration of our state affairs.

We bespeak for our nominee for governor, Honorable Richard B. Russell, Jr., the unselfish co-operation and support of all our citizens in his efforts to solve the difficulties and complexities of our state problems and to bring our state forward along the pathway of conservative and healthful progress.
